Those present at the funeral say that when brought into the church the coffin was draped with an American flag, and the preacher ordered the flag removed.

ing High School team, announced yesterday that the players were rapidly rounding into form under the tutorship of Coach Orme. Captain Clark was criticised by the Shortridge Echo of Tuesday's issue for his action in taking the Shortridge team off the field in the game against Wabash last Saturday. The same paper yesterday upheld the Shortridge captain.

Mr. Benton, the principal of the Short-ridge High School, met all the football boys and a large number of those interested in the game yesterday morning and gave them a heart-to-heart talk. First, he spoke of the faculty disapproval of the actions of the team on last Saturday. He said in substance that the race question in that case is of very little importance and that it seemed childish to stop the game on that account. He intends to write a letter to the Wabash team and apologize for the conduct of the team on that occasion and for putting an ineligible player in the line. All games or contests of any kind in the future will be properly directed by members of the faculty. Mr. Benton emphasized that hereafter when a certain person is given control of affairs he must be obeyed to the letter. Last Saturday Mr. Tuck told the boys to go ahead and finish the game, but all the boys had thoughts of their own and the game was not finished.

Those members of the faculty who are interested in athletics think that this is a critical time for the athletic association. All the money has been drawn out of the treasury to meet the expenses of last year. In order to meet the expenses of this foot-ball season until the big Thanksgiving game, the interested teachers have subscribed $150 as a guarantee to the coach for the compensation of his work.

The cost of last Saturday's trip to Crawfordsville was about $28. The manager forwarded this amount with the expectation of receiving one-half of the gate receipts and thus get the money back. The gate receipts, however, were not forthcoming, as the Shortridge boys did not finish the game. Mr. Tuck, of course, is out $28, and Mr. Benton claims that it is up to the boys to pay their own expenses as it is their fault that their expenses were not paid out of the gate receipts. It was also suggested that all the boys that go to Sheridan next Saturday shall pay their own expenses, which will be refunded after the game is over, provided they finish it in good style.

(CONCLUDED FROM FIRST PAGE.) Mary MacLane in the book is an unusual person, and se was Mr. Ashbrook in the potato race. He rode his black polo pony, which can run, turn and wheel as well as any circus horse. Mr. Ashbrook ran two or three of the judges out of the arena and then made things miserable for the others in the race. He rode his pony into the other riders, took the sticks away from other riders, knocked their potatoes off their sticks and had his own way in fine style. But toward the end of the race he was "downed." W. D. Sims, of the South Side Riding Academy of Chicago, also a splendid horseman, and Frank M. Murphy | Mrs. Harry Doris Haring. and one or two others got hold of Mr. Ashbrook's dress and when he got away from them he had no dress or hat. Then Ashbrook started to tear the sleeve out of Mr. Sims's shirt. In trying to get away from Ashbrook Sims was thrown from his pony. He fell between the two ponies, but jumped up unhurt. He had a rather narrow escape, however, for his head was not a foot away from the feet of Mr. Ashbrook's pony. The accident-or

A full attendance and a brilliant field of horses made last night a gala one in Indiana horse show history. Edwin R. Sims and A. E. Ashbrook were the only two entrants in the roadster event holding the lines properly. Some of the prettiest matrons at the show last night were Mrs. Wm. G. Carling, Mrs. Frank Hogan, Mrs. Wm. B. White

"I didn't hear it," said a dainty belle h one of the boxes, as she cocked a pink ear expectantly earthward. "What," said her escort expectantly.
"The tan 'bark,' she said demurely.

Orson Moulton, one of the best judges of appointments, horses and pretty women in America, said last night, "You can't say s great; bigger classes and of better quality than old shows of years standing can boast. That ladies' class was one of the appointed than any I have seen for years. It is a difficult matter to get entries in this class, the feminines being usually adverse to showing out in the West. In the East it is de rigeur for women to show in saddle and harness classes and Indianapolis is leading the van in the showing in this event. Seldom are turnouts in the to be enforced in its full strictness. The West better appointed in every detail than Mrs. Murphy's, Mrs. Knode and Miss Thompson were also noticeably good.

The association has acquired a splendie list of judges-the most representative in the country. Orson Moulton, of Batavia, Mrs. Richard L. Talbott were a black tail- N. Bostonian to become aggressively and contine ambulation and alcoholic exhalementsto express it Boston-wise-will do the trick just as well. It is obligatory upon the police to arrest every man who cannot walk straight and whose breath is flavored with intoxicants. Wherefore there is a wild demand for coffee beans and lovage root, and also for cabs and carriages; despite which the number of arrests advances by leaps enlarged accommodations in the police station and city prisons.

It will doubtless be urged by some that this is going too far in the direction of oldstyle puritanism. A man should be as free to perfume his breath with a distillation of rye grains as to perfume his pocket handkerchief with a distillation of rose leaves. Moreover, there are various bona fide medicines which leave a distinct alcoholic trace upon the breath. Again, while it is true that a straight line is the shortest distance between two points, it may also be that at times a man does not want to take the shortest cut, but for the sake of exercise, or to enjoy the scenery longer, or for some other equally satisfactory reason. prefers to meander hither and thither on the way. Why should he not have that There is much in such contentions of which the police and magistrates of Boston should surely take account. On the other hand it is evident that there must be some line drawn between the sober and the inebriate, and it should be drawn well on the side of safety. It is not right to wait until a man falls into the gutter and cracks his pate, or gets run over. or develops delirium tremens, before adjudging him drunken. He ought to be apprehended before he is so far gone as to injure himself or imperil others. Just what the standard should be it would be difficult to say. If that prescribed by Boston is somewhat too strict, we may doubt if it is alignment of some of the streets in Boston is such as to make the average policeman pretty tolerant of anyone who traverses arcs instead of chords, and the characteristic reserve, not to say hauteur, of Trimontane citizens will surely restrain them from too intimately investigating each other's breaths. Boston will be sober even in estimating the kilowatts of inebriety.

The Tragedy of a Dog.

Postmaster Williams's fine old bird dog 'Fanny" met a tragic fate last night. In trying to jump over the iron fence around the house, probably to escape from another tog in pursuit, she, being old and rather tat, fell short and was impaled on one of the sharp iron spikes that form the top of the fence. About 11:30 a passer-by discovered her hanging on the fence and woke John D. Williams. The poor old dog was liften off the cruel iron, which had run almost through her body, and died a few moments afterwards. "Fanny" was very gentle as well as highly intelligent, and was a general favorite in the neighborhood, as well as around the postoffice, where she spent much of her time.
